A DRIVE MADE ON FILM COLONY

Leading Ministers of Los Angeles Make Demands.

MOVIE PEOPLE MUST ELIMINATE ROWDIES

California Church People Deeply Stirred by Arbuckle Case. Sermons Delivered.

Los Angeles, Sept. 19.—Before congregations that taxed the capacity of their churches, three of the most influential clergymen in Los Angeles hurled thunderous demands from their pulpits, Sunday night, that Hollywood's great film colony must eliminate its "black sheep, get rid of the booze and turn over a new leaf," by refusing to tolerate longer those with lax morals.

In a number of other southern California churches references also were made, either before or during the evening sermons, to the San Francisco party given by "Fatty" Arbuckle, which resulted in the death of Virginia Rappe, film actress.

In the principal discourses on the subject, the pastors took occasion to warn the public not to misjudge all persons in the film world because of the shortcomings of some of their number.

The Rev. Herbert Booth Smith, pastor of Emanuel Presbyterian church, third largest Presbyterian church in the United States, in point of membership, laid stress on this point when he said:

"Christian discrimination will not place all motion-picture people in the same class even if the worst possible indictment is made. The scripture says: 'One star differeth from another star' and that is true of all kinds of stars."

Referring to the Arbuckle case, Rev. Mr. Smith said "the disapproval of the film people has been expressed, as strongly in this case as in the case of the notorious Clara Smith Hamon pictures and, for this much thanks."

Dr. Willsie Martin, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Hollywood, located in the heart of the studio district, awakened tremendous interest when he exclaimed in great fervor:

"It is squarely up to us in Los Angeles to face our jungle and drive it out."

The Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of Temple Baptist church, housing one of the largest congregations in the Far West, said:

"The hour has come when decent men and women in the movie business must take a positive stand against the roughnecks in the profession."

Further Steps.

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—Further steps in the preparation of the state's case against Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle awaited today the testimony of Dr. Arthur Beardslee, one of the first physicians to attend Virginia Rappe, with whose murder the famous film comedian stands charged.

The physician, located in Mono county, one of the most remote sections of the state, where he had gone on a hunting trip, arrived here early today to answer a summons from District Attorney Matthew Brady. His answers to two questions will materially affect the status of the case. He is the only witness in the case whose story has not been told.

The questions he will be asked to answer are:

What was his diagnosis of Miss Rappe's illness?

What treatment was given?

Dr. Beardslee is understood to have attended Miss Rappe much of Monday night, two weeks ago. It had been rumored that the defense counts heavily upon his testimony, although so far as is known it is as ignorant of its nature as is the state.

District Attorney Brady and his assistants, Isadore Golden and Milton U'Ren, today had in mind a complete reconstruction of the scenes that attended the gay hotel party which was followed by the death of the pretty film actress, piecing together the story as told by the party's dramatic personae. They dramatically rehearsed the events that led up to the alleged attack.

The rehearsal took place behind locked doors, but it was learned today that it had provided the state with valuable leads. Other over-Sunday developments included:

The arrival of Minta Durfee Arbuckle, wife of the prisoner, in charge of Arbuckle's attorneys, who refused to permit her to talk.

District Attorney Brady wired Salt Lake authorities to intercept Lowell Sherman, member of Arbuckle's party and material witness, upon receipt of word from Los Angeles that he had departed for the East.

Announcement that at least two witnesses would be heard by the grand jury tonight, in connection with that body's inquiry into charges of "witness tampering."

Two new women witnesses questioned, whose names were withheld.

Funeral Today.

Los Angeles, Sept. 19. — They buried Virginia Rappe today. The film actress, who died following the fatal party staged by Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle in San Francisco, was given a simple but impressive funeral from an undertaker's parlor in Hollywood. The Rev. Frank Roudebush, an Episcopal clergyman, officiated.

There were a number of beautiful floral offerings, the most pretentious being a blanket of 1,000 tiger lilies sent by Miss Rappe's fiance, Henry Lehrman, of New York. There was a pillow of roses from Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hardeback, of Los Angeles, here adopted uncle and aunt.

A throng estimated at from 6,000 to 7,000 persons viewed the body of the actress, known as the "best dressed woman in the movies," as it lay in state from 10 to 1 o'clock Sunday. Throughout the six hours the chapel of the undertaking establishment was open, the crowd came silently and in single file. As they passed the silver gray, flower-banked casket and gazed at the beautiful actress's face, there were many who shed tears.

MISS BERNICE M'ALLISTER DIES AT BELLEFONTAINE

Sister of Richard McAllister, of This City.

Miss Bernice McAllister, aged twenty-two years, of Peoria, a sister of Richard McAllister, of east Center street, died in a hospital at Bellefontaine this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. She was taken to the Bellefontaine hospital a week ago Thursday, to undergo an operation for the removal of tonsils. The following day, at 10 o'clock in the morning, she fell asleep and the attending physicians were unable to awaken her. She died in that condition. She had formerly weighed 140 pounds and had wasted away until she weighed only sixty pounds. Her condition was too weakened to permit an operation and two blood transfusions were resorted to in an effort to save her life. Her sister, Mrs. Van Wittenbery, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, gave the first pint and a half of blood and her fiance, Kenneth Davis, of York Center, a pint and a half of blood.

The physicians diagnosed her sleeping condition due to a poison through her system resulting from diseased tonsils.

The young lady was a daughter of Mrs. Josephine McAllister, of Peoria and one of a family of eight children. She was a niece of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. McFadden, of Agosta.

Rheumatism Due To Waste Products In The Blood

As the blood circulates, it has two functions to perform First: to carry nourishment to all parts of the body. Second, to take up the waste products and cast them out through the proper channels.

When waste products accumulate in the system, they are a menace to life. They cause a lowered vitality, many forms of skin disodrers and rheumatism.

There is no disease more painful; nor a disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as rheumatism. Genuine relief can be had only by correcting the basic trouble—waste products.

Thousands and thousands of men and women during the past 50 years have cleared their blood of waste products with S. S. S. It is the real remedy for rheumatism, because it removes the poisonous waste matter which is causing the trouble. There are no bad after effects and the result is wonderful. Begin taking S. S. S. today and write for 56 page illustrated book-let, "Facts about the Blood"—free. Personal medical advice, without charge may also be had by sending a complete description of your case. DYING WOMAN TELLS OF INHERITANCE, MAN SUES

Elmer Redd Claims Guardian, Now Dead, Wrongs Him.

SISTER OF GUARDIAN'S WIDOW REVEALS FACTS

Redd Invokes Court Aid To Obtain $337.88—Mrs. Peter Mounts Sues for Divorce.

Charges that an inheritance of $337.88 from the estate of his father and mother has been wrongfully withheld from him since April 20, 1896, by his guardian, the late J. B. Cummins, and his heirs, and that he did not know of the inheritance until about June of this year when a sister of his guardian's widow, Mary Cummins, revealed the fact on her deathbed, are made in a suit filed in the common pleas court this morning by Elmer Redd against Mary Cummins and others He asks for judgment in the sum of $337.88 with interest from April 20, 1896. The petition was filed through Attorney L E Myers.

He also states that in accordance with the terms of the contract he entered into possession of the property and paid for it to April 16, 1921, the sum of $546. SENATORS ARE MAKING PROBE

"We have nothing with which to protect ourselves," the colored preacher said, his voice quavering. "The men come here and drive us out like sheep."

"What do you mean 'the men?'" asked Kenyon.

"I'm not certain," replied Echols. "We used to call 'em Baldwins,' but now they call them 'state constabulary.'".

Echols drew vivid pictures of alleged attacks upon the tent colony and bullet rents in the tents were shown.

"All we want is peace," Echols said "The strike was caused by the fact we could not get enough to live upon for the work we did We were driven from the mines and lost our jobs when we joined the union."

R. C. Kirk, a young miner, testified that low pay, the mine guard system and the requirement by operators that the miners trade at company stores were reasons for dissatisfaction of Mingo county miners Kirk testified he was discharged from the Ponk Creek By-Product company, a mining concern owned by the Norfolk & Western Railway company, the day after he joined the union.

Kirk and other miners testified they had urged other miners to join the United Mine Workers of America, but had never threatened to "make things unpleasant" for miners who refused to join.

The senate committee was shown the spot where Alex Breedlove, miner, was killed by state policemen, June 14. Breedlove was a member of the tent colony.

Mrs F A Tomlinson, whose husband is in jail at Williamson, was asked by Senator Kenyon to voice the sentiments of the tent colony women regarding the conflict

"It's a shame," she said, after hesitating to find words to express herself. "And I want you to get all the truth about it, so something can be done to stop it, so we can have peace here."

Senator Searched.

Williamson, W. Va., Sept. 19.—Senator Kenyon, chairman of the senate investigating committee, was "frisked" by the state police to find out whether or not he had any fire arms on his person before he was permitted, this morning, to enter the court-room where the second "trigger" trial, growing out of the battle of Matewan, draws to a close

The senator attended the trial incognito and the state police guarding the entrance to the court-house were not aware they were searching the distinguished United States senator Senator Kenyon heard the closing argument of testimony in the trial. He made no comment.

SHOP CRAFTS DEFER ACTION

cided at a number of important meetings to be held this week and next month.

Mass meetings of representatives of the shop crafts of all railroads entering Cleveland will be held here today. Simultaneously, similar meetings will be held in Chicago and in eighteen other large cities, according to representatives of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor, who organized the meetings here

Between October 8 and 10, officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway conductors, Switchmen's Union of North America and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen will meet in Chicago to count the strike ballots distributed to the men several weeks ago.

These ballots, on the acceptance or rejection of the $400,000,000 wage reduction recently ordered by the railway labor board, reveal a difference of opinion among the executives of the five organizations, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen using a separate ballot and the other four organizations a joint one.

The trainmen's ballot states that the one adopted by the other organizations "did not * * * contain an impartial and unbiased recital of all that is involved, nor did it convey the assurance that the wishes of the men, if against working for reduced wages, would determine the question and that they would be permitted to to leave the service"

Men Warned to Save Money.

Members of the eleven shop crafts, six of which already have voted to strike, are being warned to save their money and lay in stores of food and coal in preparation for "at least one month of idleness" The crafts will fight to the limit, union officials say, Decision No. 222 of the railway labor board, abolishing the punitive overtime on 134 railroads.

James G. Sause, representative of the railroad department of the Federation of Labor, predicted the strike of the shopmen was sure to come and said he wanted the men prepared.

"The time is not ripe yet, though," he said. "When it comes it will come suddenly, and it will paralyze all transportation within a week."

Warren S Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, predicted yesterday that more than ninety-eight per cent. of the membership of four of the brotherhoods would vote in protest against the recent decision, comprising wage cuts amounting to 12 1-2 per cent., and "unsatisfactory working conditions"

"The men on some of the roads might have accepted the wage cut, even though it was a drastic one," Mr. Stone said, "but they object strenuously to the elimination of rules and working conditions which they fought to establish for thirty years. Moreover, some roads are even asking for another wage cut."

Mr. Stone was asked whether a vote by the brotherhoods' membership would automatically result in a stoppage of work He replied in the negative

Not Actually Voting on Strike.

"The men are not even voting actually on a strike," he said "They are voting to authorize the chief executives and general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the other brotherhoods, not including the trainmen, to act as agents and attorneys, in dealing for a settlement with the railroads"

Regarding strike prospects, Mr. Stone said: "I can veto a strike or call one off, but the men themselves are the only ones who can decide to call one."

Mr. Stone said that railroad labor was suffering greatly from unemployment and that many men were being demoted.

It is predicted in some labor circles that much of the effectiveness of a railroad strike this fall would be lost due to the present unemployment situation. It is asserted, too, that as regards a shop craft strike the railroads, in event of a walkout, could have their work done just as cheaply and efficiently in contract shops.

Predictions as to the outcome of the balloting among members of the trainmen's brotherhood, about whom Mr. Stone did not care to predict, so far are confined to unofficial rumor.

IRELAND WAITS DEVELOPMENTS

attitude the republicans have held for five years—that Ireland is not a British domestic problem, but a matter between two sovereign states.

De Valera motored to Dublin from Black Rock, late Sunday night and spent several hours conferring with Sinn Fein leaders. Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein and a member of the Sinn Fein cabinet, arrived at Mansion House two hours before his usual time, this morning.

"I don't know what will happen," said Desmond Fitzgerald. "When things are apparently going smoothly there is generally a break. When they begin to go wrong they shift to the right side."

Deadlock Unbroken.

London, Sept 19.—The deadlock in the Irish peace situation was unbroken, today. The firm attitude taken by Premier Lloyd George in his notes of Saturday and Sunday led to the prediction in some quarters that Eamonn de Valera might withdraw his demand for a republic, but advices from Dublin quoted the Sinn Fein radical as saying they intended to stand pat.

De Valera was expected to reply at once to the latest note of Premier Lloyd George, despatched from Scotland late yesterday. In this communication the premier again declared the British cabinet could not treat with the Sinn Fein in a peace parley unless the demands for Irish Independence was withdrawn and the Irish pledged their allegiance to King George.

The premier said that from the very outset of his conversations with de Valera he had insisted that Ireland remain an integral part of the British empire.

The Irish truce is being strictly observed, except at Belfast where several persons were killed and wounded.

Two Are Killed.

Belfast, Sept. 19.—Comparative order prevailed here today following a terrific burst of rioting in which two women were killed and a man was wounded. The dead women were sisters, Miss Eva Ardis and Miss Maggie Ardis and both were killed by the same bullet.

The fighting began with sniping by Sinn Feiners and unionists in Vere street. Policemen supported with Lewis machine-guns were rushed to the scene and arrested three of the ringleaders. Firing continued, however and soldiers and armored cars were sent into the fighting zone. They remained on duty all night patrolling Vere street and adjacent thoroughfares

BUT THE FAIR WILL START ON TUESDAY

Farmers Are Busy Taking Out Their Stock for the Big Show.

Members of the Marion County Agricultural society, with an additional force, are busy today preparing for the opening of the seventy-first annual fair scheduled to open Tuesday and continue throughout the week. Indications at the grounds today are evidence that the old adage "Bigger and better than ever" will be fulfilled.

The speed barns were full Sunday morning and some of the old back barns have been fitted for use. A large crowd of people watched the horses work out Sunday and the trainers are getting their steeds in shape for the races which will start Wednesday afternoon

Quite a number of horses arrived today and some of the owners will not be able to get here until Tuesday, but lovers of the harness sport are promised some fast racing and good finishes as the track is in fine condition.

Farmers are busy today taking out their stock exhibits and the members of the society are having some difficulty finding space for the exhibitors. The attractions on the grounds will be many and the patrons this year will find many conveniences that they have not had in the past. With good weather throughout the week, it is predicted that all attendance records will be broken.

life.

Griffith, here, is believed to be the only man in the United States sentenced to life imprisonment for three separate murders. He is, however, no worse off than had he been sentenced for but one murder.

It is said that a question as to Griffith's sanity, was responsible in each case for the jury's recommendation for mercy.

REV. J. C. GERLACH IN HIS FARWELL SERMON

Declares Parting Scenes Are Always Thrilling.

A SHARP, PIERCING SENSATION IN HEART

New Pastor of Prospect Street M. E. Church, Rev. Charles Trenschel, Dayton.

Rev. J. C. Gerlach, who is leaving this city for Dayton, preached his farewell sermon at the Prospect Street M. E. church Sunday morning. He was heard by a large audience. There was no service in the evening.

Thursday morning Mr. and Mrs. Gerlach will go to Dayton, where Rev. Mr. Gerlach will assume the pastorate of the German M. E. church. Rev. Charles Trenschel, of Dayton, will, it is expected, arrive here Friday morning.

Rev. Mr. Trenschel will preach his first sermon in the Marion church next Sunday morning. Until he can get settled in the parsonage on south Prospect street, he and his wife will be entertained in the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Seiter.

Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Gerlach baptized Dorothy Louise, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bechtle.

For his farewell sermon the pastor took for his text, Acts 20:32, "Now brethren, I commend you to God and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified." He said in part:

"Parting scenes are always thrilling. When a son or a daughter leave home the last meal eaten, the last prayer offered, the last embrace and last kiss given and the last words spoken, there is a sharp, piercing sensation in the heart, which can not easily be described, but which must be experienced. St. Paul takes leave of the elders of the church at Ephesus There was the last meeting, the last exhortation, the last prayer and their ways parted. The time has come when a change of minister is to take place and what shall be the farewell greeting? The best words I could think of are the words, 'And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of His grace, who is able to build you up an to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified."

"Why commend you to God and to the word of His grace? On account of the changing scenes of life. The great steamer leaves the harbor under strains of music; there is much laughter, joy, happiness, as the mighty floating palace finds its way out of the harbor unto the watery deep, but before many hours or days a fierce storm arises. The winds blow and the billows roll, then there is great anxiety and much fear. This is a picture of life. Therefore I commend you to God. Why? Because we are called upon to wage a holy warfare for God and His kingdom. We are among the crusaders of the cross of the twentieth century. But one passion should burn in our souls, 'The World For Christ.' Every person in our constituency for Christ. That will mean much work, united forces and prevailing prayer. Obstacles must be overcome, problems must be solved. Disappointments will arise. Therefore I commend you to God.

"God is able to build you up in our most holy faith. Make us firm and steadfast, unwavering and unmovable as a rock in mid-ocean over which the billows of the sea have been sweeping for ages.

"And God is able to give you an inheritance. The reward of the faithful will be a heavenly home. Let our face and heart ever be turned heavenward and homeward."

THE HUB OF COMMERCE.

Daily Proverb—"He is not a good soldier who fights with his tongue."

"Of course," says an exchange, "if any young man wants to kiss the girl who smokes cigarets, it's his affair and hers." And, as a matter of fact, if she doesn't object to cigaret-flavored kisses, what ground has he to complain.

It's our guess that the writer who wants to know if women are inferior to men is some crusty old bachelor.

A government bulletin advises the eating of more onions, and we can almost hear thanks going up over in the Hardin county onion belt that we have a real administration down in Washington at last.

Among the chief-sufferers from the present-day styles for women, the stage and the seaside resort are prominent.

The kindly suggestion that we lay in our coal for next winter now and save the advance in price has a most decidely familiar ring.

A Chicago professor having demonstrated that he makes in two weeks what a milk-wagon driver makes in one, it's easy to get the force of that old one to the effect that "education pays."

PASSING OF THE GYPSY.

The Gypsy in Europe is said to have been practically exterminated by the war. The few thousands remaining in the rest of the world are succumbing to economic conditions which force them into a settled existence.

The Gypsies stood for something most of us have wanted some time, and never have been quite able to get—freedom, romance, color, change. We could think of them as dwelling in their brown tents, moving across country in their caravans, playing wild Gypsy music, and making wild Gypsy love. Probably the facts were quite different, but what did that matter—we had the dream.

Now they are buying little tracts of land and becoming farmers. They are working in factories and are buying houses—regular houses. Soon they will vote, and send their children to school. They will be married by clergymen instead of Gypsy "kings." When lovers prove false they will sue for damages, instead of slipping a knife into the recreant one.

To those who view the attempt to escape monotony and staidness with scorn and suspicion the end of the Gypsy will mean only the removal of a nuisance—a bad example in an otherwise exemplary world. But to others the passing of the Gypsies will mean the loss of a colorful and dramatic survival of man in his nomad state, the utter triumph of the mechanical and orderly ideal of life, and the death in the world of fact of a symbol of the free vagrancy of the human soul.

THE FUTURE OF THE HORSE.

For pleasure driving, and to a large extent for the hauling of freight, the automobile has superseded the horse. Many millions of horses continue in use, however, and according to a statement issued by the Pennsylvania state department of agriculture there is no danger of their abandonment as beasts of burden, for it finds that for short hauls the animal is more reliable and economical than the machine.

The director of the bureau of animal industry says it has been found that for distances of less that twenty miles a day the horse costs less than the automobile. The animal's period of usefulness is placed at ten years, but it asserts that the average life of the gasolene driven automobile truck will not exceed seven years. Continuing, the report says: "Horses can be fed today at sixty-five cents a day; automobiles do not feed so cheaply. Horse repair bills—that is, veterinary bills—are a negligible item; automobile repair bills are not. The investment in a team of horses and a wagon is certainly no more than twenty-five per cent. of that in an automobile of like capacity."

So long as work can be done with a horse more cheaply than with a gas engine the animal will survive. Improvements will come in automobiles, however, which will reduce the cost of operating them and will lengthen their life. When that comes about there will be no further need for the horse and it will pass out of use.

THE WORM HAS TURNED

FEWER LAWS, MORE ENFORCEMENT.

With quite a number of state legislatures in session the last few months, the country has had a demonstration of law-making and law-repealing that has probably never been equaled. The activities of the legislators may be accepted as an indication of the uncertainty of the public mind as well.

Measures which less than five years ago were hailed as marked advances in legislation are being sent to the discard by the legislators and other measures are being enacted.

To the average man it appears as though the business of law-making is being very much overdone. The public has not become even partially familiar with a bit of legislation until it is repealed or altered in a way that makes it necessary for radical changes to be made in the methods of doing business.

Many citizens would probably be just as well satisfied if their legislature would meet, pass the appropriation bills and adjourn. Much of the legislation that is enacted meets no general demand, but is fostered by some special interest. Many laws are found to be impractical and are either repealed or permitted to remain on the statutes without any attempt to enforce them.

What the public wants is not more laws, but enforcement and observance of the ones already on the statute books.

THE "WELTER OF WASTE."

[Cincinnati Enquirer.]

President Harding has the happy faculty of being able to say things in a way that instantly is comprehensible by the plain people. While dilettante editors and pedantic critics make jest of his phraseology he continues to use a very human speech, calmly indifferent to culturistic criticism.

The president is of the people—as much so as was McKinley—and he understands them. They understand him. What is more, he is now universally recognized as the leader of the Republican party, a position attained through his frank initiative and the forcefulness of his personality.

The president's assumption of leadership is justified by the development of his policies and the achievements to date which have distinguished the activities of his administration. Of those he modestly says:

"Surveying the national situation as a whole, it is plain that we are working our way out of a welter of waste and prodigal spending at a most impressive rate."

Opposing partisan bias scarcely will be able to refute this conclusion of the executive. The president is supported in this view by many tangible facts. It can not be denied that from the beginning he has bent every energy, drawn upon every possible resource to make way out of the "welter of waste and prodigal spending."

Retrenchment on the one hand, efficiency on the other—these are the demands of the president. He stands for the collection of the debts due us from foreign nations and the funding of the debt of the railways to the United States. Such policies should not invite partisan opposition. When Europe pays, or begins to pay us, and the debt of the railways is funded, and government expenditures are more and more cut down, we shall find ourselves well on the way toward that era of unprecedented prosperity which Mr. Hays so recently prophesied was certain to respond to the attraction of courage and confidence.

LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

[By Dr. James Ball Naylor.]

CHARITY.

Charity should begin at home, doubtless.

But it needn't lock its door—and decline to answer all rings at the bell.

The only worthy charity is the charity that enables those needing it to rise out of their condition—that helps them to help themselves; that offers opportunity and encourages to effort.

There are many kinds of misdirected and mischievous charitable activities, however. Frequently we do too much for persons actively soliciting, or passively accepting, aid; we do for them what they could and should do for themselves. And thus we further weaken them—and fix them in their unfortunate state.

Charles Lamb, the lovable, tender-hearted English essayist, once wrote:

"Shut not thy purse-strings always against painted distress. Act a charity sometimes. When a poor creature, outwardly, and visibly such, comes before thee, do not stay to inquire whether the 'seven small children,' in whose name he implores thy assistance, have a veritable existence. Rake not into the bowels of unwelcome truth to save a halfpenny. It is good to believe him."

There the genial essayist preached a dangerous doctrine.

"It is good to believe him."

Good for the giver, maybe. It's following the line of least trouble and resistance. It's slaying the conscience—and insuring placidity. But what is it doing for the mendicant? Isn't it countenancing his lying, condoning his trickery, and directly encouraging him to remain an idle, worthless and helpless beggar?

Such charitable deeds are mischievous.

Give the beggar a job; set the tramp to work.

Along this line of thought, the editor of the Ohio State Journal remarks:

"A man comes to the door soliciting funds for a home for crippled children. The housewife who answers his ring is busy. She is ironing, and there is a pie in the oven, and, oh, ever so many other things on her mind; but—crippled children! Of course she can't very well refuse an appeal of that kind. But later, when a girl comes to ask donations to a hospital, and the neighbor's little boy asks her to buy tickets for the Sunday-school entertainment for the benefit of some other good cause, her patience, as well as her time, begins to be exhausted. It is the same way with the man in the office, only the demands upon him are apt to be heavier."

Yes, indeed! Thus it goes. They tell us it is more blessed to give than to receive. That being the case, wouldn't it be simple justice to permit the receivers to be the givers for a while—that they might receive and enjoy the blessing?

To be brutally frank: We're doing entirely too much in the way of charity. We're helping too many persons who should, and could, help themselves. We're directly offering countenance and encouragement to idleness, thriftlessness, prodigality and beggary. Too much of our money given to organized charity, even, never gets farther than the fingers and pockets of those engaged in the work.

It's time to call a halt. It's time to begin to investigate and discriminate.

THE SHIRKERS' CREED.

This cruel world owes us a living—
And should hark to our clamorous greed;
Let the other chap do all the giving—
And furnish us all that we need.

Let the workingman do all the working,
And the moneyed-man do all the rest;
We'll agree to look after the shirking—
And feast on the fattest and best.

Ormington Riegel and Two Columbus Friends Do It.

THEY TOGGLE UP OLD FORD CHASSIS FOR LONG TOUR

Go Through New York, New England and Canada—Now Want Sell Ford at Profit.

One month ago a former Marion boy and two Columbus youths, two of them high school students and the other an Ohio State university sophomore, had an old Ford chassis and an ambition to see some of the United States.

Today they are back in Columbus from a 3,000-mile trip in their Ford through the East, New England and Canada and they are only $27 poorer financially than they were when they started. These unusual tourists are Ormington Riegel, formerly of Marion son of Vernon M. Riegel, state director of education; Edward Griffith and Flood Nelson, both of Columbus.

The chassis cost them $25 apiece; the body was given to them; they managed to make the contraption run by applying the knowledge they had gained in school and university; they did their own cooking while traveling, slept in a tent, and as a result saw 3,000 miles of North America at a cost that was less than a cent a mile.

They were eighteen days on the road and during the entire time had only two punctures. They traveled form Columbus east over the national pike and then struck up the Atlantic coast through New York and New England into Canada. While in Canada they reached, late one night, a little French-Canadian town which had only one inhabitant who could speak English, an old woman. The town was so closely built up that the only place they could pitch their tent was the graveyard.

There they spent the only rainy night of their trip, under the shadow of an ominous old fortress and within close range of a skeleton—that of a cow. The trio carried a letter from Police Chief French, of Columbus. This won special consideration wherever they went. In New York a policeman accompanied them on a tour of the city and later found them tenting space in an exclusive residential district.

The worst roads they encountered on their trip was the road between Cleveland and Columbus on the last leg of their journey. Saturday they were negotiating for the sale of their flivver at a price in excess of that which they paid.

DEPOSITIONS TAKEN IN C., D. & M. TRACK CASE

Wherein Removal of Rails Is Sought Near Columbus.

Depositions in the ouster suit filed by the state against the C., D. & M. Electric company because it refused to remove its tracks north of Columbus from the side to the center of High street, were taken at the court house in Columbus, Saturday by the attorney general's and prosecutor's offices. Ralph Smith, secretary of the board of Franklin county commissioners, and Miss Bessie Peele, stenographer to former highway Commissioner Hinkle, and Richard B. Sheridan, contractor, who has the High street paving job, were called as witnesses and told respectively of the steps that had been taken to have the traction company remove its tracks and its refusal to do and the delay occasioned in the improvement of High street because of the refusal.

James M. Kittle Honored.

James M. Kittle, superintendent of the Ohio Malleable Iron company, Columbus, captain of one of the early Ohio State football teams and a fraternity brother of Charles L. Justice, of Marion, was elected president of the Columbus Alpha Tau Omega Alumni association at the annual meeting of the organization held Saturday night at the fraternity house, No. 1932 Waldeck avenue, Columbus. E. E. Perkins was re-elected secretary and Ray Palmer, treasurer.

WORK IN SCHOOLS TO BE SUPERVISED BY STATE

Emphasis Will Be Placed This Year on Teaching.

Less inspection and more supervision is to be exercised hereafter in schools of Ohio by the state department of education, on the theory that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" in educational affairs.

At a conference held last week in Columbus by Director Vernon M. Riegel, of the department of education, President Thompson, of Ohio State university; Dean George F. Arps, of the college of education, and Dr. B. B. Buckingham, of the bureau of educational research, the university consented to pay the salary of Professor F. C. Landsittel, who is to devote the first semester of this school year to the supervision of high school work.

As supervisor of high school work, Professor Landsittel, who has had long experience as a teacher and high school inspector, will attempt to prevent mistakes on the part of school officials instead of merely calling their attention to wrongs after they have been done.

Some inspection will still be done, Mr. Riegel said Saturday, but emphasis is to be placed on what ought to be done. He has faith in the honesty and integrity of school officials to feel confident that they will measure up to standard if properly advised.

In carrying out this program, representatives of the department of education will be sent to every city, town and village in the state to interpret for school officials school laws, standards, etc., and explain to them what is expected.

Emphasis is to be placed this year on teaching, Director Riegel said. The kind of school building a community has and the kind of equipment the building owns are important, but teachers are the most important part of the school system and efforts are to be made to raise the standard of the teaching profession.

Cleveland, Sept. 19.—Johnny Kilbane, world's featherweight champion, will be barred from again appearing in Cleveland, his home city, in any match, according to a statement by Chairman J. B. Wilberding, of the boxing commission unless he adopts a different attitude toward the "reasonable demands of that body."

Wilberding cited as reasons for his attitude Kilbane's stand on the selection of a referee and judges for his contest with Danny Frush, of Baltimore, Saturday and his failure to post a forfeit of $5,000 required for his appearance Saturday.

This sum, it was revealed, was put up by Tommy McGinty, one of the promoters of the match.

Motion-pictures of the Kilbane-Frush fight, shown here Sunday, clearly show the foul by Kilbane in the first round, upon which Sammy Harris, Frush's manager, claimed the bout.

ALL DOVE SHOOTING MUST STOP AT ONCE

Game Protector O. H. Neimeyer Announces Today.

O. H. Neimeyer, of Prospect, game protector, gave out the following statement today:

"We had a number of calls in regard to the squirrels. They do not come in the bag limit but must not be killed in the closed season, unless they are doing damage, and then only by the owner, or duly authorized ... of the premises. This also applies to fox, rabbit and black birds.

"Ill. attorney general holds it is unlawful to shoot doves under the Ohio law, in spite of the fact the federal law permits it, so all dove shooting must stop at once."

MARION DAILY STARS WIN FROM TOLEDO

Second Defeat Negotiated by Marion for Page Dairies.

TWO ARE INJURED IN GAME HERE SUNDAY

Two Fast Doubles Are Worked by Each Team—Score, Six to Two.

[BY F. L. KRAMER.]

In as nice and fast a game of ball that could be wished for, the Marion Daily Stars defeated the Page Dairy team, of Toledo, for the second time this season at Lincoln park, Sunday afternoon, by a score of six to two. On the first trip of the Toledo team the locals won by a count of six to three.

The Marion team looked very much like the undefeated team of last season at the start of the contest, but toward the latter part of the game the misfortunes came. When Weller was tagged out at the plate in the sixth inning when attempting to score on a passed ball that rebounded from the stand, he was thrown off his stride and strained a ligament in his right foot. He may be able to play next Sunday. Fetter went to third and Uhl to first and Hogan went to the outfield.

Another bad accident occurred in the eighth inning. Catcher Joe Conroy was struck on the index finger on the right hand by a foul tip, the finger being broken so that the bone protruded through the flesh. He was hastened up town for surgical attention and may be able to be back in the game in two weeks. It was then that the value of Fetter's service was demonstrated as he had to do the catching and Jackman was sent to third.

Pitchers in Grand Form.

These accidents and the fact that luck in the playing was not breaking with Marion did not upset the team in the least. Hawkins was sent to the mound for the locals and he pitched in grand form. He kept the eight hits of the visitors well scattered while he struck out seven batters. He walked four men and hit one, but in the pinches he was effective and would have scored a shutout but for a couple of errors back of him. However the locals gave him support of a sensational nature on a number of occasions.

Two fast doubles were worked by each club, Uhl figuring in both made by the Daily Stars. While playing in right field he caught the fly of Fritz in the fifth and by a perfect peg threw Myers out at the plate. In the last frame he was the cracker of the double on the infield while plaing the first sack, this being started by Lawson with Lattimore as the interlaeuter.

Shaw Retired.

Shaw started in the box for Toledo and was going good, but after the fifth he retired as a result of his passing one man and being touched for a single and double, but with all this the locals failed to score.

Benett assumed the pitching duties in the sixth with the score even and in this round the locals scored what proved to be the winning run.

Price was hit and stole second and with two out Lattimore doubled to left and Price registered.

A double play by Uhl, triples by Price and Jackman and Fetter's infield single gave the locals three more in the eighth and the fans were satisfied.

BABE RUTH SHOWS UP HIS HOME-RUN CRITICS

Seventy-Five Per Cent. of Homers in Gotham?

THAT'S NOT TRUE, SO RUTH PLAINLY SHOWS

New York Has Shortest Right-field in Circuit, but Babe Makes 'Em Everywhere.

[BY BABE RUTH.]

New York, Sept. 19.—Now it seems I've got to defend my newest record from an unexpected angle. Some one up and says I made my new mark by hitting most of my long ones at the Polo grounds, the inference being that any one can knock them over the fence in the New York ballyard.

To quote exactly, this particular expert writes: "The records will show that nearly seventy-five per cent. of Ruth's home runs this year will be made at the Polo grounds—the shortest rightfield in the circuit."

To begin with his statement is inaccurate in several places. Up to Friday of last week I have knocked exactly twenty-eight home runs at the Polo grounds while driving out the other twenty-seven in parks around the circuit. In other words only fifty-one per cent., which is considerably less than the percentage quoted above.

Why So Many There.

All you have to do is look at the number of games the Yankees play on their homegrounds and it is easy to understand why I knock so many there.

In other ball parks my home runs are evenly distributed: three each at Chicago, Detroit and Washington, and four each at St. Louis, Cleveland and Boston. I have knocked six home runs at Philadelphia, the longest right field in the league next to Washington, and yet we have only played nine games in the Quaker City.

Last season when I hit fifty-four home runs, the percentage at the Polo grounds and other parks was approximately the same. But the previous season when I made my first record of twenty-nine as a member of the Red Sox, I naturally hit the greater number at Fenway park in Boston. Incidentally I drove more over the fence that year at Detroit than at New York, the so-called short right field.

Matter of Record.

It is a matter of record that two of the longest home runs I ever made were at the Polo grounds this season, both to the deep centerfield bleachers and not to right. Both drives measured around 550 feet, which was enough to clear any rightfield wall in the country with yards to spare. The records of course, never specify what direction the ball was hit and as it is taken for granted that a lefthanded knocked to the rightfield.

In this connection it has been noted that more of my long drives have gone to centerfield this season than in the past. Few have mentioned the reason, which is because a majority of the lefthanded pitchers have been using a side-arm delivery against me, in a great many instances serving up low outside balls.

This is a difficult ball to "pole" and the average lefthanded batter would drive it down third base. But I have managed to straighten out a lot of them both to centerfield and deep right.

How It Happens.

It does just so happen that official measurements puts both right and left field at the Polo grounds as the shortest walls in the American league. New York and Cleveland are about the same around 250 feet whereas Boston, St. Louis, Chicago and Detroit are all bunched together with about 100 feet added distance. But that is about the distance of a healthy bunt to first base and I figure that any old ball I have driven into the Polo grounds grandstand had enough punch behind it to carry another few hundred feet if necessary.

One thing, if the Yankees and Giants fight it out for the World's championship all our games will be at the Polo Grounds.

I will probably enter into an agreement with George Kelly, homerun champion of the National league whereby he will do all his slugging north by east and I will confine my drives to the southwest corner of the field.

At any rate, our batting duel will be all in the same park with equal advantage to both.

will heat twice the space at one-half the cost of operating the ordinary heater. The Florence burns soft coal or slack and all the smoke and gases. No filling up of the pipe or flue with soot. No dirt inside or outside the house. Will burn hard coal and all the gases which escape from a hard coal base-burner. It will produce one-half less ashes than the ordinary stove with any kind of fuel and leave no clinkers or half-consumed fuel.

No Smoke! No Dust! No Dirt! No Clinkers!

EVERYTHING IS CONSUMED

At the end of a season's use with soft coal there will be no soot in the pipe.

MOTHER NATURE GIVES MARION SOME VARIETY

Rains To Beat the Band Saturday—Temperature Drop.

Marion was the victim of the whims of Mother Nature Saturday.

Before the day was half spent she had introduced some extremes from her source of weather conditions. The day was ushered in with threatening clouds, a remnant of the day before, which in the afternoon asserted their importance by gushing forth torrents of rain.

But in the battle of position King Sol won first place later in the afternoon and it got real warm With the sinking of the sun, however, the atmosphere turned quite cool; in fact, there was quite a temperature drop that continued over Sunday and today.

SENATOR LIGGETT BOOMED FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Representative for This District May Seek the Nomination.

Senator D. A. Liggett, of Logan county, is actively pushing his candidacy for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, says Sunday's Columbus Dispatch concerning one of the two representatives of this senatorial district. He has been farmer, school teacher, soldier and legislator by turns, and shows by the record of the election returns in campaigns when he was a candidate for public office, that he never failed to lead his ticket. His home is at Belle Center and it is an interesting fact that he was born on the farm that included the site of the camp of the Wyandot Indian Chief Tarhe, the Crane, and where Simon Kenton, pioneer hero of Ohio, was compelled by the Indians to run the gauntlet.

Here's a display you will not want to miss, men—for your pride's sake or your pocketbook's

The garments are under glass, but they are not like the axes in Pullmans that can only be broken into in case of accident

The self-same suits—the exact patterns—the identical values are inside where you can see them—feel them—try them on—and buy them with the assurance that no other store in America will do better for you than you can do for yourself right now at Kleinmaier's.

It's a mighty satisfaction to a man, when he wants new clothes, to be able to walk into a store and feel that way about it. You can here, always.

"Marion's Greatest Store for Men and Boys."

House Destroyed By Fire; Nothing Saved

This headline is to be noted almost every day in the papers. Perhaps the greatest loss is in jewelry and valuable papers, such as contracts, deeds, records, receipts, etc. After his house is smouldering ruins, the owner of course realizes his lack of prudence in not having a safety deposit box for his valuables, where they would be beyond the reach of fire or any other destructive agency.

Why gamble with the chance of a fire; you can't afford it? Reserve a safety deposit box in our new vault and have that sense of security you can not have now.

The rentals are most reasonable.

REV. E. J. A. ST. LOUIS IN FIRST SERMON HERE

Student Pastor of Asbury M. E. Church Heard Yesterday.

CHRISTIAN SEES MANY THINGS IN PART ONLY

New Pastor Says, Taking for His Subject, "The Seen and the Unseen."

"The Seen and the Unseen" was the text of the opening sermon delivered by Rev E J A. St. Louis, new pastor, at the Asbury M. E church Sunday morning He took his text from Hebrews 11.27 He said in part: "The Christian, in his journey through life, sees many things and fails to understand them, and not understanding fails to grasp the full purpose of God's plan He sees many things in part only. He looks at the masterpiece of some great artist and little realizes the years of work and study that were necessary to produce it He hears the musician with quiet skill, thrill a great audience with his perfect control of piano or violin, and little thinks of the years of failures and discouragements that have been overcome.

See Crown, Not Cross.

"So, in Christian life, we see the crown and not the cross. Many want salvation, but are not willing to pay the price. The Master said, 'Take up your cross and follow Me.' Noah was considered crazy by those about him for spending 120 years preaching and building the ark We have record of only eight converts in all that time Abraham was doubtless considered foolish when he bound his son and was ready to sacrifice him at the altar

"We, who have less faith than these prophets, often see only the difficulties and none of the possibilities of salvation An occulist once told me that if people who were doing close work would at regular intervals look at some distant object they would in many cases save getting glasses.

Must See from Afar.

"The Christian is used to looking at things from the limited view of a human All great enterprises were undertaken by men of great vision The Christian's vision is a matter of faith

"With faith we can accomplish many things With faith we can get a view of the seen and the unseen, and by it understand God's plan and purpose and His mission for us"

Rev Mr St. Louis comes here from a church in Springfield, Missouri He was born in Missouri and has spent most of his life there. While acting as pastor for the Asbury M E church, he is attending Ohio Wesleyan university, staying during the week at No 70 University avenue, Delaware
